that said, an enlarged prostate—known medically as benign prostatic hypertrophy (bph)—is an extremely common male malady, affecting 50 percent of men over 50, and 80 percent of men over 70.

"sometimes we had to come up with solutions very fast (and) there were different liability structures and different assets."

penis, heart tempo problems, multiple myeloma or hemophilia, but there may be various other disorders